

Jennie -

My comments to your colleague a couple of months ago stand. The boilerplate refers to our government's priorities that the people of Alberta elected us to deliver. How 'Building Alberta', 'Opening New Markets' or 'Living within our means' is in any way political is beyond me.

Your linking of that boilerplate to judicial independence is a ridiculous characterization and below the otherwise exceptional standards of the CBC. I will be taking this up with your editors.

-Stefan